PAPER FOLDING Materials: Squares, triangles, and circles (usually four inches in diameter) of engine-colored, glazed, and coated papers, dyed in all colors, shades, and tints. Oblongs and hexagons are also sometimes used. Paper has long been so cheap and abundant a Paper Fold- fabric that for many years mothers have Modema used itto delight their children. In the occupation. firelit winter evenings, before the days of the useful (and ugly) match, our grandmothers folded dainty lamplighters, under the watchful eyes of an admiring little group, and when the pretty work was over, marvelous paper boats and boxes and windmills were fashioned for the expectant audience. Many times in the quiet home-life of the German peasant, Froebel with that all-inclusive gaze of his saw parents and children united in this simple art, and noticed the unfailing delight which it evoked, and since his desire...
