Not illustrated. 1874 Excerpt: . . . setting spurs to his horse, to lie rolling in that hole half-a-dozen of ye; why in the name of common sense dont ye help one another out. There is one more class which although intended as Christian names are too curious to be passed over, I mean those derived from virtues and other abstract ideas. The greater number of these came into use in the middle of the 17th century, and were used by the Puritans in lieu of such appellations as Henry, Edward, Anthony and William, which were regarded as heathenish. The following names I take from Camden as typical of the species of improvement introduced. There are to be found, he says, in the parish registers of the time the names Free-gift, Reformation, Tribulation and Discipline. Yet with all our curious names I doubt whether we have ever had any so unfortunate as that in Smolletts story of the French officer. This gentleman, Count Valavoir (Anglic6, go-and-see,) walking round the camp after night, passed the post of a sentinel who challenged him with the usual Who goes there to which the officer replied Va-la-voir. The soldier, doubting if he heard right, twice repeated the question, and was twice again answered in the same manner. Enraged at length by what he considered an insolent response, the sentinel levelled his musket and shot the bearer of this unfortunate cognomen dead upon the spot. THE GUTHRIE COMMEMORATION. The anniversary service was held on Saturday, June 21...
